Primary Law Constitutional. The new primary election law is constitutional. Justice Garrison has filed an opinion in the Supreme Court sustaining the act. The law was attacked by Congressman Allan McDermott for the Democrats of Hudson County.

The court sustains the contention of Attorney-General McCarter that the measure is not special legislation.

Justice Garrison in his opinion holds, first, that the law is not special because it applies only to general elections, nor is it special because it provides for the nomination of ward officers by direct vote and for the nomination of officers for larger divisions by delegates.

On the question as to the act violating the secrecy of the ballot, Justice Garrison says:

"The right to vote a secret ballot neither a natural right nor a constitutional right. Hence a legislative provision that, if challenged, a voter shall make affidavit that at the last general election at which he voted for a majority of the candidates of the party with which he is proposing to act violates no constitutional right of such voter.

"The argument, therefore, that the affidavit to be made by a challenged voter violates any natural or constitutional right to secrecy possessed by him is entirely without foundation

"Moreover, as the voter is not required to say for whom he voted, but only that he voted for a majority of the candidates of the party with which he claims to act, it is difficult to see wherein such partial avowal is any more inimical to secrecy than is the open and avowed partisan co-operation that has hitherto constituted the voter's credentials."

Justice Garrison further holds that the right to enact a primary election law is clearly within the Legislature's police powers.

Primary elections, he said, are so far matters of public concern that they are, at the discretion of the Legislature, proper objects of reasonable statutory regulation. Justice Garrison concludes his opinion by citing the fact that in other jurisdictions where primary election laws have been passed a like result has been reached in cases brought in the courts of those jurisdictions.

Mountainside Hospital.

Since the year 1890, when the Mountainside Hospital opened its doors to the public, every year has seen an increase in its efficiency of service until it has proved itself indispensable to the community to which it ministers. The last year shows the record of a large number of patients cared for, and school at 2:30 P. M., Epworth Lea ue of great success attending the work.

At 7 P. M., Evening Service at 7:45,

Prayer Service, Wednesday 8 P. M.,

Sunday Class-meeting at 9:30 A. M. and eighty-three persons were admitted to the hospital, sixty-six of whom occupied private rooms. While a part of the ward patients paid ward prices, a large proportion were admitted free. The increased number of emergency cases during the year shows most con-clusively the help that the hospital offers in cases of accident. Many of the patients required immediate help, and but for a hospital near at hand the results might have been fatal. One hundred and twenty-eight surgical operations were performed, a large number of them of a very serious character. Four bundred and twentyseven persons were treated in the out-patient department, many of whom returned day after day for advice. All these free of charge.

The crowded condition of the hospital at times during the year, the necessity of separating medical and surgical cases, and the need of a children's ward have led to a decision by the Governing Board to erect a new building. Ground has already been broken and the work will be pushed as rapidly as possible. Larger accommodations will make necessary a larger income. This point has been thoroughly considered by the management, but it is undertaken with the hope and assurance that the friends of the hospital will come to its aid, and support it as generously as they have done in the past.

Painting of Governor Bloomfield. There will soon be placed in the State House at Trenton a life-size tkeness of General Joseph Bloomfield, fter whom this town was named, and whose visit here is one of the interesting sistoric incidents in the annals of the town. The painting is the work of William H. Griffin of North Plainfield, and it is the gift of Charles Bloomfield, great-great-grand-nephew of the distinguished soldier Governor. Mr. Griffin was commissioned to paint the ploture two years ago. At that time the donor of the portrait in oil enlisted his aid in searching for a picture from which a painting could be made. The North Plainfielder hunted up the late Colonel Julian Scott, the noted artist, whose studio was in the Stil'man building in Plainfield. From Scott, who was a great collector of relies and curios, he got not only a picture but several medallions of the late Governor. Now the work is finished and critics say that it reflects great credit on the artist. Governor Bloomfield was New Jersey's first Democratic Governor and the fourth in the Gubernatorial line after the adoption of the State Constitution. His predecessors were William Livingston, William Patterson and Richard Howell, the first taking office in 1776 and the last named quitting it in 1801. These three men were Federalists. Governor Bloomfield was elected to office in 1801, and was re-elected in 1803, and he continued to hold the office until 1812, a short interim being filled by

John Lambert, President of the Council. Charles Bloomfield, the donor of the picture, lives on the ancestral farm beween Metuchen and Amboy. He is the only living relative of the former Governor. The homestead is a grant from King Charles I. of England to his early

Like Finding Money.

W. Keyler Offers Medicine at Half-Price,

W. W. Keyler, the popular drugglet, s making an offer that is just like finding money, for he is selling a regular. 50 cent bottle of Dr. Howard's celebrated specific for the cure of constipa-tion and dyspepsia at half-price. In addition to this large discount he agrees to return the money to any purchaser whom the specific does not cure.

It is quite unusual to be able to buy fifty-cent pieces for a quarter, but that is what this offer really means, for it is only recently, through the solicitation of Druggist W. W. Keyler, that this medicine sould be bought for less than fifty cents. He urged the proprietors to allow him to sell it at this reduced price for a little while, agreeing to sell certain amount. The result has justified his good judgment, for the sale has been comething remarkable.

Any one who suffers with headsone dyspepsia, dizziness, sour stomach, specks before the eyes, or any liver trouble, should take advantage of this opportunity, for Dr. Howard's specific will cure all these troubles. But if by any chance it should not, W. W. Keyler will return your money.

The specific is very pleasant to take, coming in the form of small granules, and there are sixty doses in every package. It is especially convenient when traveling, and no one should start on a journey without a bottle of this reliable medicine. - Adrt.

Against Loan Sharks.

W. H. Truesdale, President of the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western Railroad Company, has taken steps to protect employees of that railread from loan brokers, and at the same time simplify the bookkeeping of the railroad and its coal companies. Orders were lesued that no employee should make an assignment of his salary. Desiring to obtain money, it has become oustomary for a small proportion of employees to make ansignments of their salaries to a loan broker. The rate of interest charged is exorbitant, according to officials of the company, and it was deemed advisable to protect the employees,

BEAR THIS IN MIND.

Never let it be forgotten that the building and loan association is primarily a money-saving institution and only incidentally a money-making organization. Therefore safety and not profit should be the first concern in its management.

ACQUIRE HABIT OF SAVING.

No matter how small the salary, some portion of it should be saved each

No man can prospet who does not spend less than he makes.

Whether a man be rich or poor, there is for everyone in this life the lesson of self-denial to learn. The process of saving may be slow, but it is sure. The proper way is the systematic one by which individuals piece regularly an amount in some good building association.

SALARIED MEN LARGELY IN THE MAJORITY,

The salaried man should have thought for the future, as well as the man who has his own business. To save one must have a definite, fixed method. The experience of others is a reliable guide board, whose friendly arms point to the building and loan association as a safe form for investment. The mainstay of building associations are wage earners, but professional and business men form quite a proportion of the membership. The best thing for young men or young women to do when they first begin to earn money for themselves is to join a building association and save a dollar or two every week from their salary, or as much as they can spare from their income, and thus prepare for the future.
